ADMINISTRATION AND FACULTY

Education should be as gradual as the moonrise, perceptible not in progress but in result.

BACK ROW:
Stanley Evans,

Director;
Mick McCelland,

The Corning Board of Education directs the largest business concern in the community--a $12,000,000 education project.

The Board's primary concern is that of policy-making to guide the personnel of the school, approximately 1200 pupils, 58 teachers, 43 non-certified teaching employees.

The school has been blessed with good board membership whose untiring effort has placed the Corning Schools among the best in the State of Iowa.

Aside from policy making it is the duty of the board to supervise:

1. The operation and maintenance of the school plant.
2. To approve the purchase of all supplies and equipment.
3. The employment of all school personnel.
4. To improve the curriculum.

Under the correct guidance of the board, great strides forward have been made. These include:

1. Increased plant facilities.
2. Better teaching personnel.
3. An expanded curriculum.
4. Teaching salaries.
5. Teaching aids and equipment.

Age: 19 on February 10, 1965

Nationality: Guatemalan

Date and Place of reaching USA:

Miami, August 24, 1964, as an
A.F.S. student from Guatemala

Honor Roll 4; Student Council 4; Mixed

Club 4.

I was born on February 10, 1946. My family consists of my father, my mother, my brother, my father's aunt (who reared him), my sister-in-law, and my four little nieces (five, four, three, and one years of age.

My father and brother are printers and work for the Printing of the Army.

The main hobby of our family is music. Writing (especially poetry) is also a hobby of my father's, my brother's, and mine. I also enjoy dramatic performances.

I went to a Catholic private school during my elementary grades, to a public school the first three years of my secondary school, and to another Catholic private school the last two years.

I graduated as a secretary after I applied for the A.F.S. Program and worked seven months in one of the offices of the Ministry of Public Education. When I knew I had gotten the scholarship, I asked permission for one year leave of absence in my work--and they gave it to me. Back at home I start working again on August 1st, when my permission ends.

My ambition is to get a job as an English and Spanish Secretary--to practice always my English and get a better salary. I also want to take courses in writing and music. I plan to keep correspondence with all my friends here, in other countries, and to work with the A.F.S. Chapter in my country.

The Annual Staff, consisting only of 10 members this year, had a very pleasant, but hard-working year. The Annual Staff is under the sponsorship of Mrs. Helen Starks.

January 15, our Annual Dance was held in the girls' gymnasium. This dance was the highlight of the school year.

In February we enjoyed our annual "get-together-meal". This is always held after the annual is finished.

At sometime in May the staff sponsors a "signing party dance" at which students and faculty of the high school are guests of the staff. At this time the annuals are signed and dancing is also enjoyed by those who wish to dance.

The start of the 1964-65 school year saw 59 boys expressing a desire to be members of the Corning Hi-Y. This is a Christian organization established to create, extend, and maintain Christian character throughout the school and community.

The boys in the club have taken the Hi-Y purpose not only as a standard while in the club but as a standard for life.

The four planks in the platform of Hi-Y are; Clean Sportsmanship, Clean Speech, Clean Scholarship, and Clean Living. With the practice of these rules, a young man makes himself a better citizen and person.

The Hi-Y members realize that a clean, strong youth, mentally and physically, tends to make a clean, strong club of which any community can be proud.

To help meet its expenses this year, the Hi-Y had a talent show in October and a candy sale in December.

For service projects, it purchased a Thanksgiving basket for the nursing home; had charge of the high school Thanksgiving assembly program in November; had charge of the high school bulletin boards for two weeks; had charge of the Sunrise Easter Service at Lake Binder; mowed and raked McConkey Park; put up directional signs in the community; and contributed to World Service.

The activities included formal induction September 29, following pot luck supper with parents in attendance; attended training conference at Lake Okoboji September 19 and 20; held a chili supper; sponsored an all school dance; held a club dance in the spring for members only; a volleyball tournament in late winter; and a game of "capture the flag" held at the country club.

THE "CHUTING STARS"

"SUNBURST" -- the most symbolic picture of the team. --Official U. S. Navy Photograph. Space Men? -- Resembling invaders from outer space, three members of the "Chuting Stars", the Navy's Parachute Exhibition Team, glide downward at speeds up to 180 miles per hour.

HISTORY OF THE "CHUTING STARS"

The U. S. Navy Parachute Exhibition Team, the "Chuting Stars" were formed in 1961 at the Naval Parachute Facility, El Centro, California, to help commemorate the 50th anniversary of Naval Aviation. Originally formed as a temporary unit, the public response during the team's exhibitions throughout the country was so successful that the "Chuting Stars" became a permanent organization. They were then placed under the operational control of the Chief of Naval Air Training, VADM Fitzhugh Lee, and assigned to their present home base at the Naval Air Station, Pensacola, Florida.

The "Chuting Stars" are comprised of sixteen expert jumpers whose mission is to travel the length and breadth of this country demonstrating free-fall techniques to stimulate interest in the Navy in general, and in Naval aviation in particular. The members of the team are not professional sky-divers, but are Naval Parachutists - volunteers whose past work has pioneered in the research and development of pilot safety and survival equipment. Projects such as ejections from jet aircraft and the design of equipment for the Astronauts are a part of their contribution to increased safety in aviation.

The free-fall maneuvers executed by the "Chuting Stars" thrill both young and old alike. While free-falling from 12,500 feet to their parachute opening altitude of 2,500 feet in one minute, they prove that man has control over both his mind and body while falling at speeds from 100 to 185 miles per hour. By manipulating their arms and legs, these Navy men are able to control their rate of fall, turn in any direction, and do practically anything a modern day fighter aircraft can do except, of course, climb. In one body position for example, a jumper can travel one foot horizontally for every foot he falls vertically.

Smoke grenades attached to their boots enable the spectator to follow the free-falling jumpers as they perform such unbelievable maneuvers as four men joining up within 3 to 10 feet of each other immediately after exiting the jump aircraft at 110 miles per hour, separating at a predetermined altitude, and opening their parachutes with over a mile separation between each jumper. Another intricate maneuver includes two men exiting the aircraft together, separating for approximately 1/2 mile, passing each other within 15 to 20 feet, maintaining a relative closing speed of about 250 miles per hour. Other exhibitions include actually grasping each other during a join up, and passing a baton from jumper to jumper.

During the 1963 season alone, as an example of the "Chuting Stars" busy schedule, they completed 57 air shows throughout the country, traveling a total of 75,000 miles and performing before an estimated 4 million spectators. Their 6,000th parachute jump since the teams origin in 1961 was logged last spring at their winter training headquarters at the Naval Air Facility, El Centro, California. If the free-fall time during these jumps were totaled, the time would be 84 hours and 7 minutes and the distance traveled equaling that between New York City and Sidney, Australia.

-- Official U. S. Navy Photograph

The "ChutingStars" show season started this year in mid-February and will extend through November. Under the supervision of the Officer in Charge, ICDA "Pete" Jarina, the team will perform at approximately 75 air shows in practically every section of the country.

-- Official Information from U. S. Navy, 1964

--Official U. S. Navy Photograph

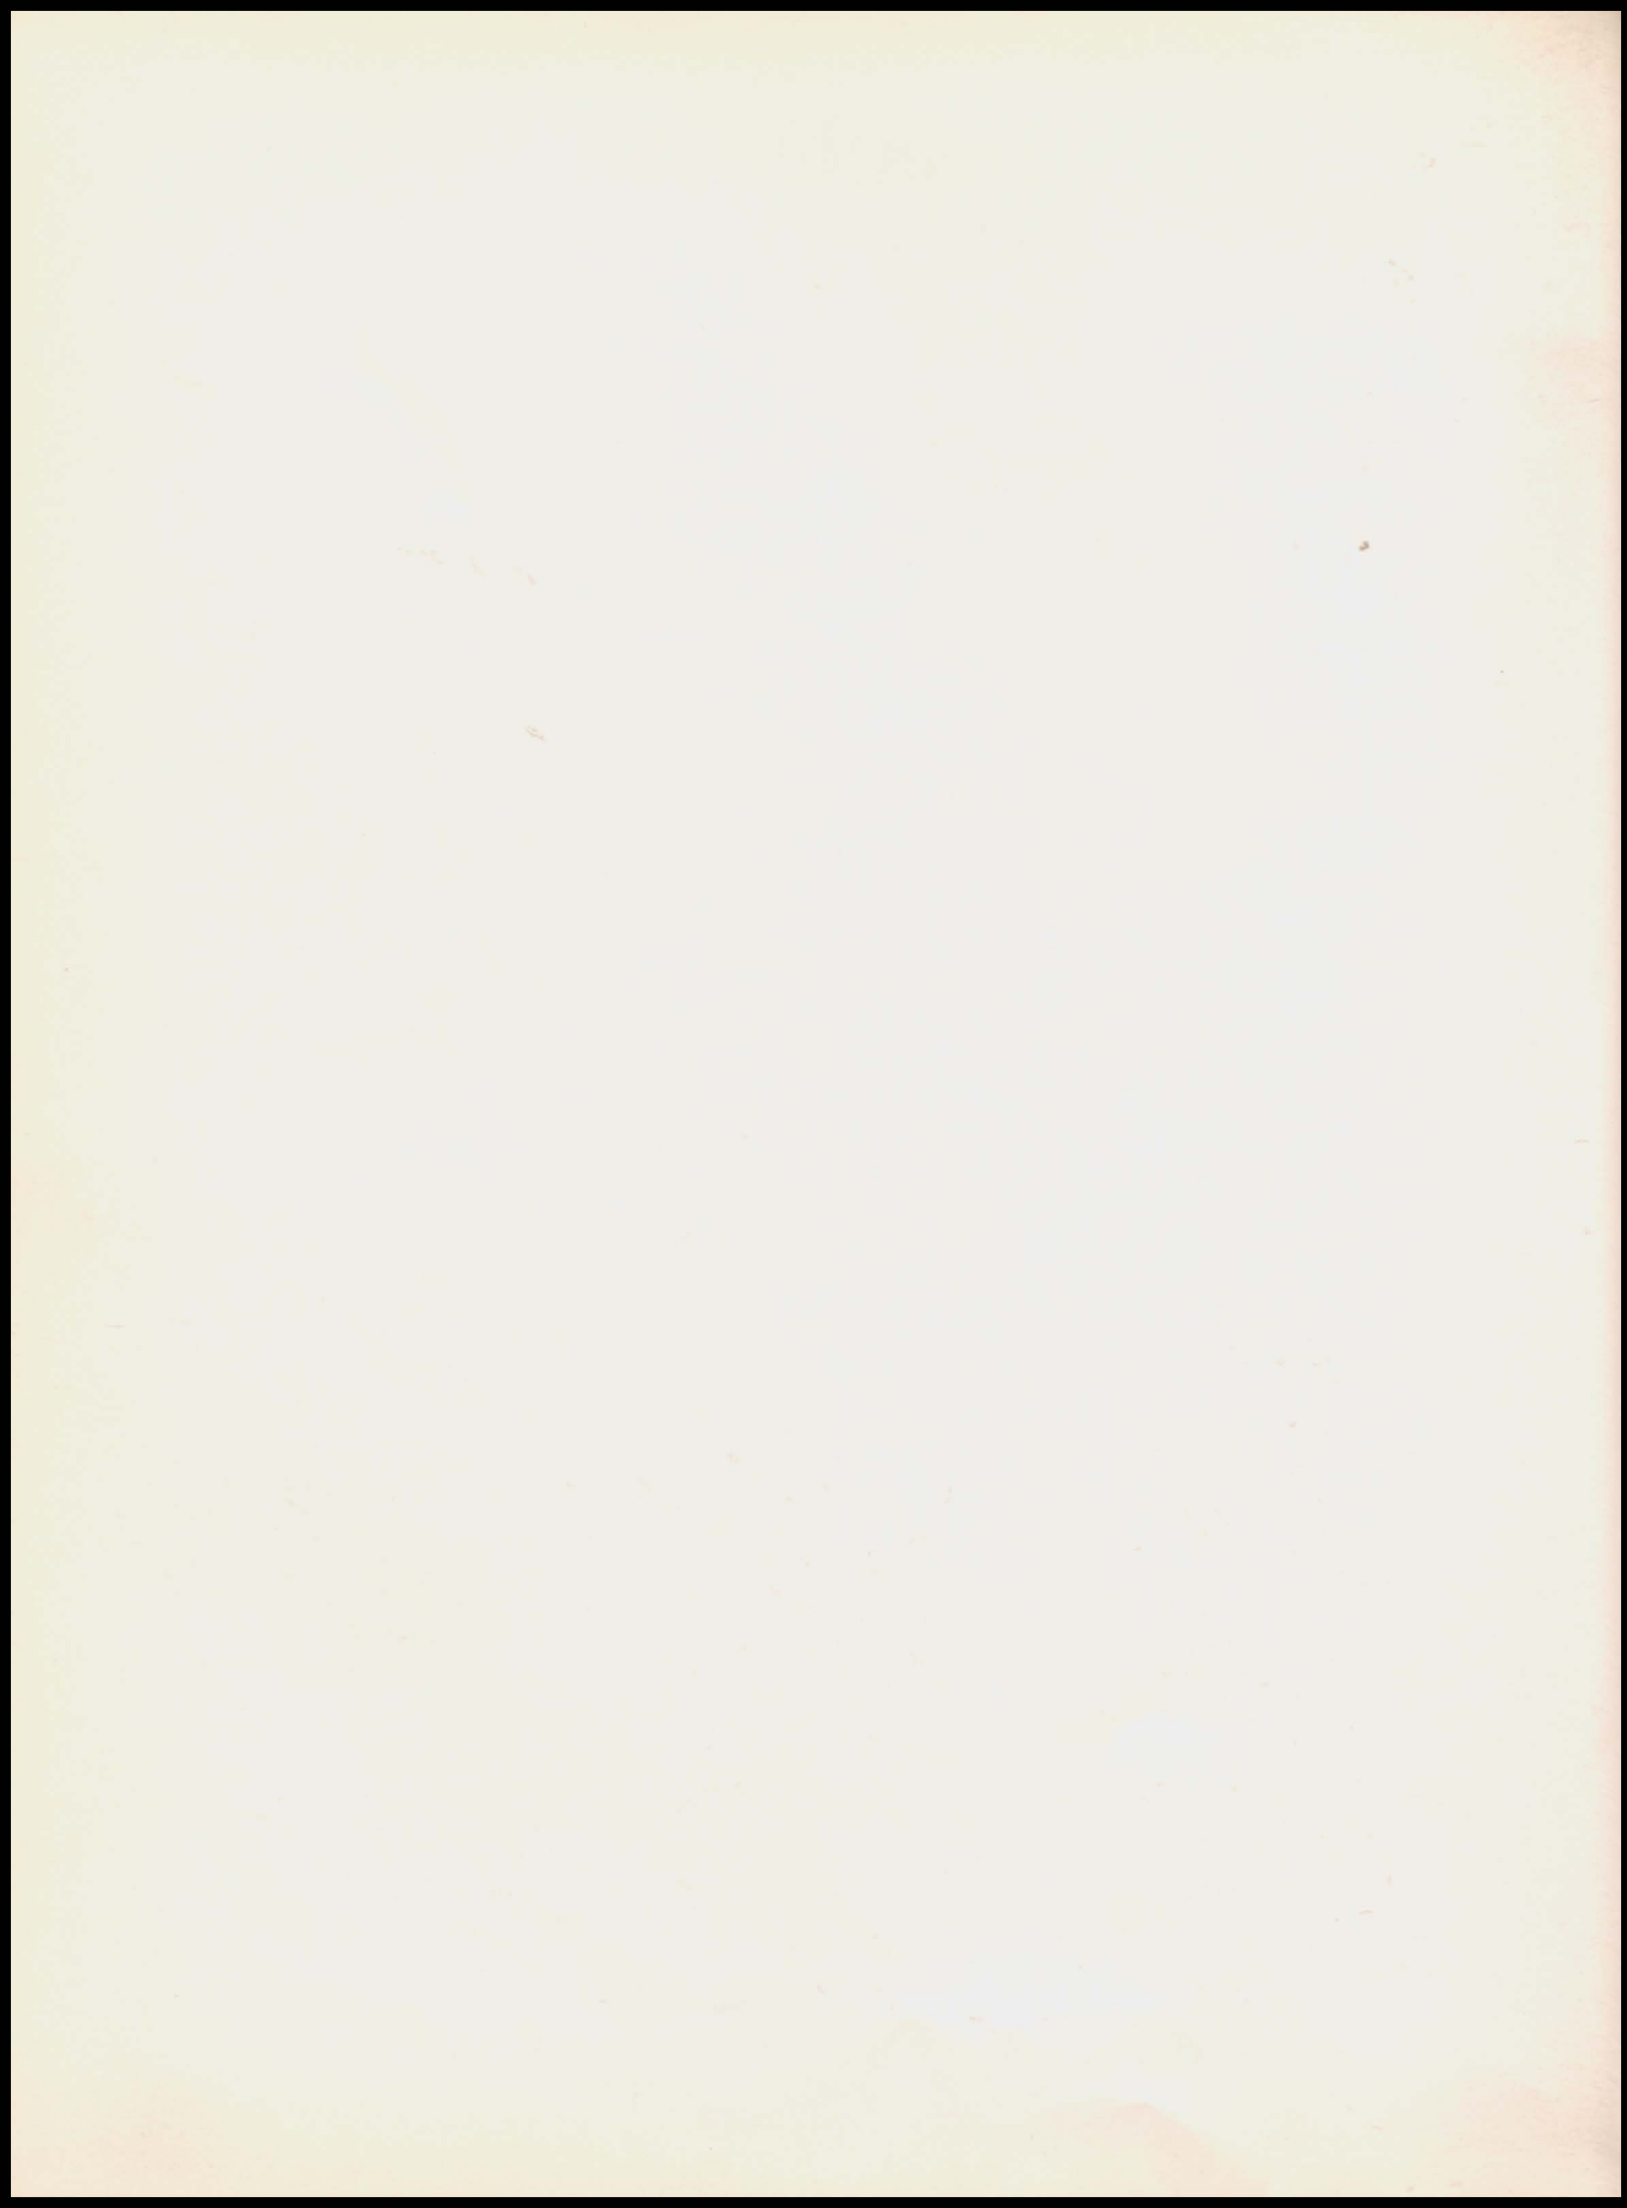

Wearing gold suits, the Navy parachutists have smoke canisters strapped to their ankles which enables the spectator to follow them as they perform their aerial maneuvers. They normally jump from an altitude of 12,500 feet and free-fall 10,000 feet in 60 seconds before opening their chutes. Members of the team are equipped with a stop watch and an altimeter which enables them to perform with split second accuracy and to open their chutes at the proper altitude.

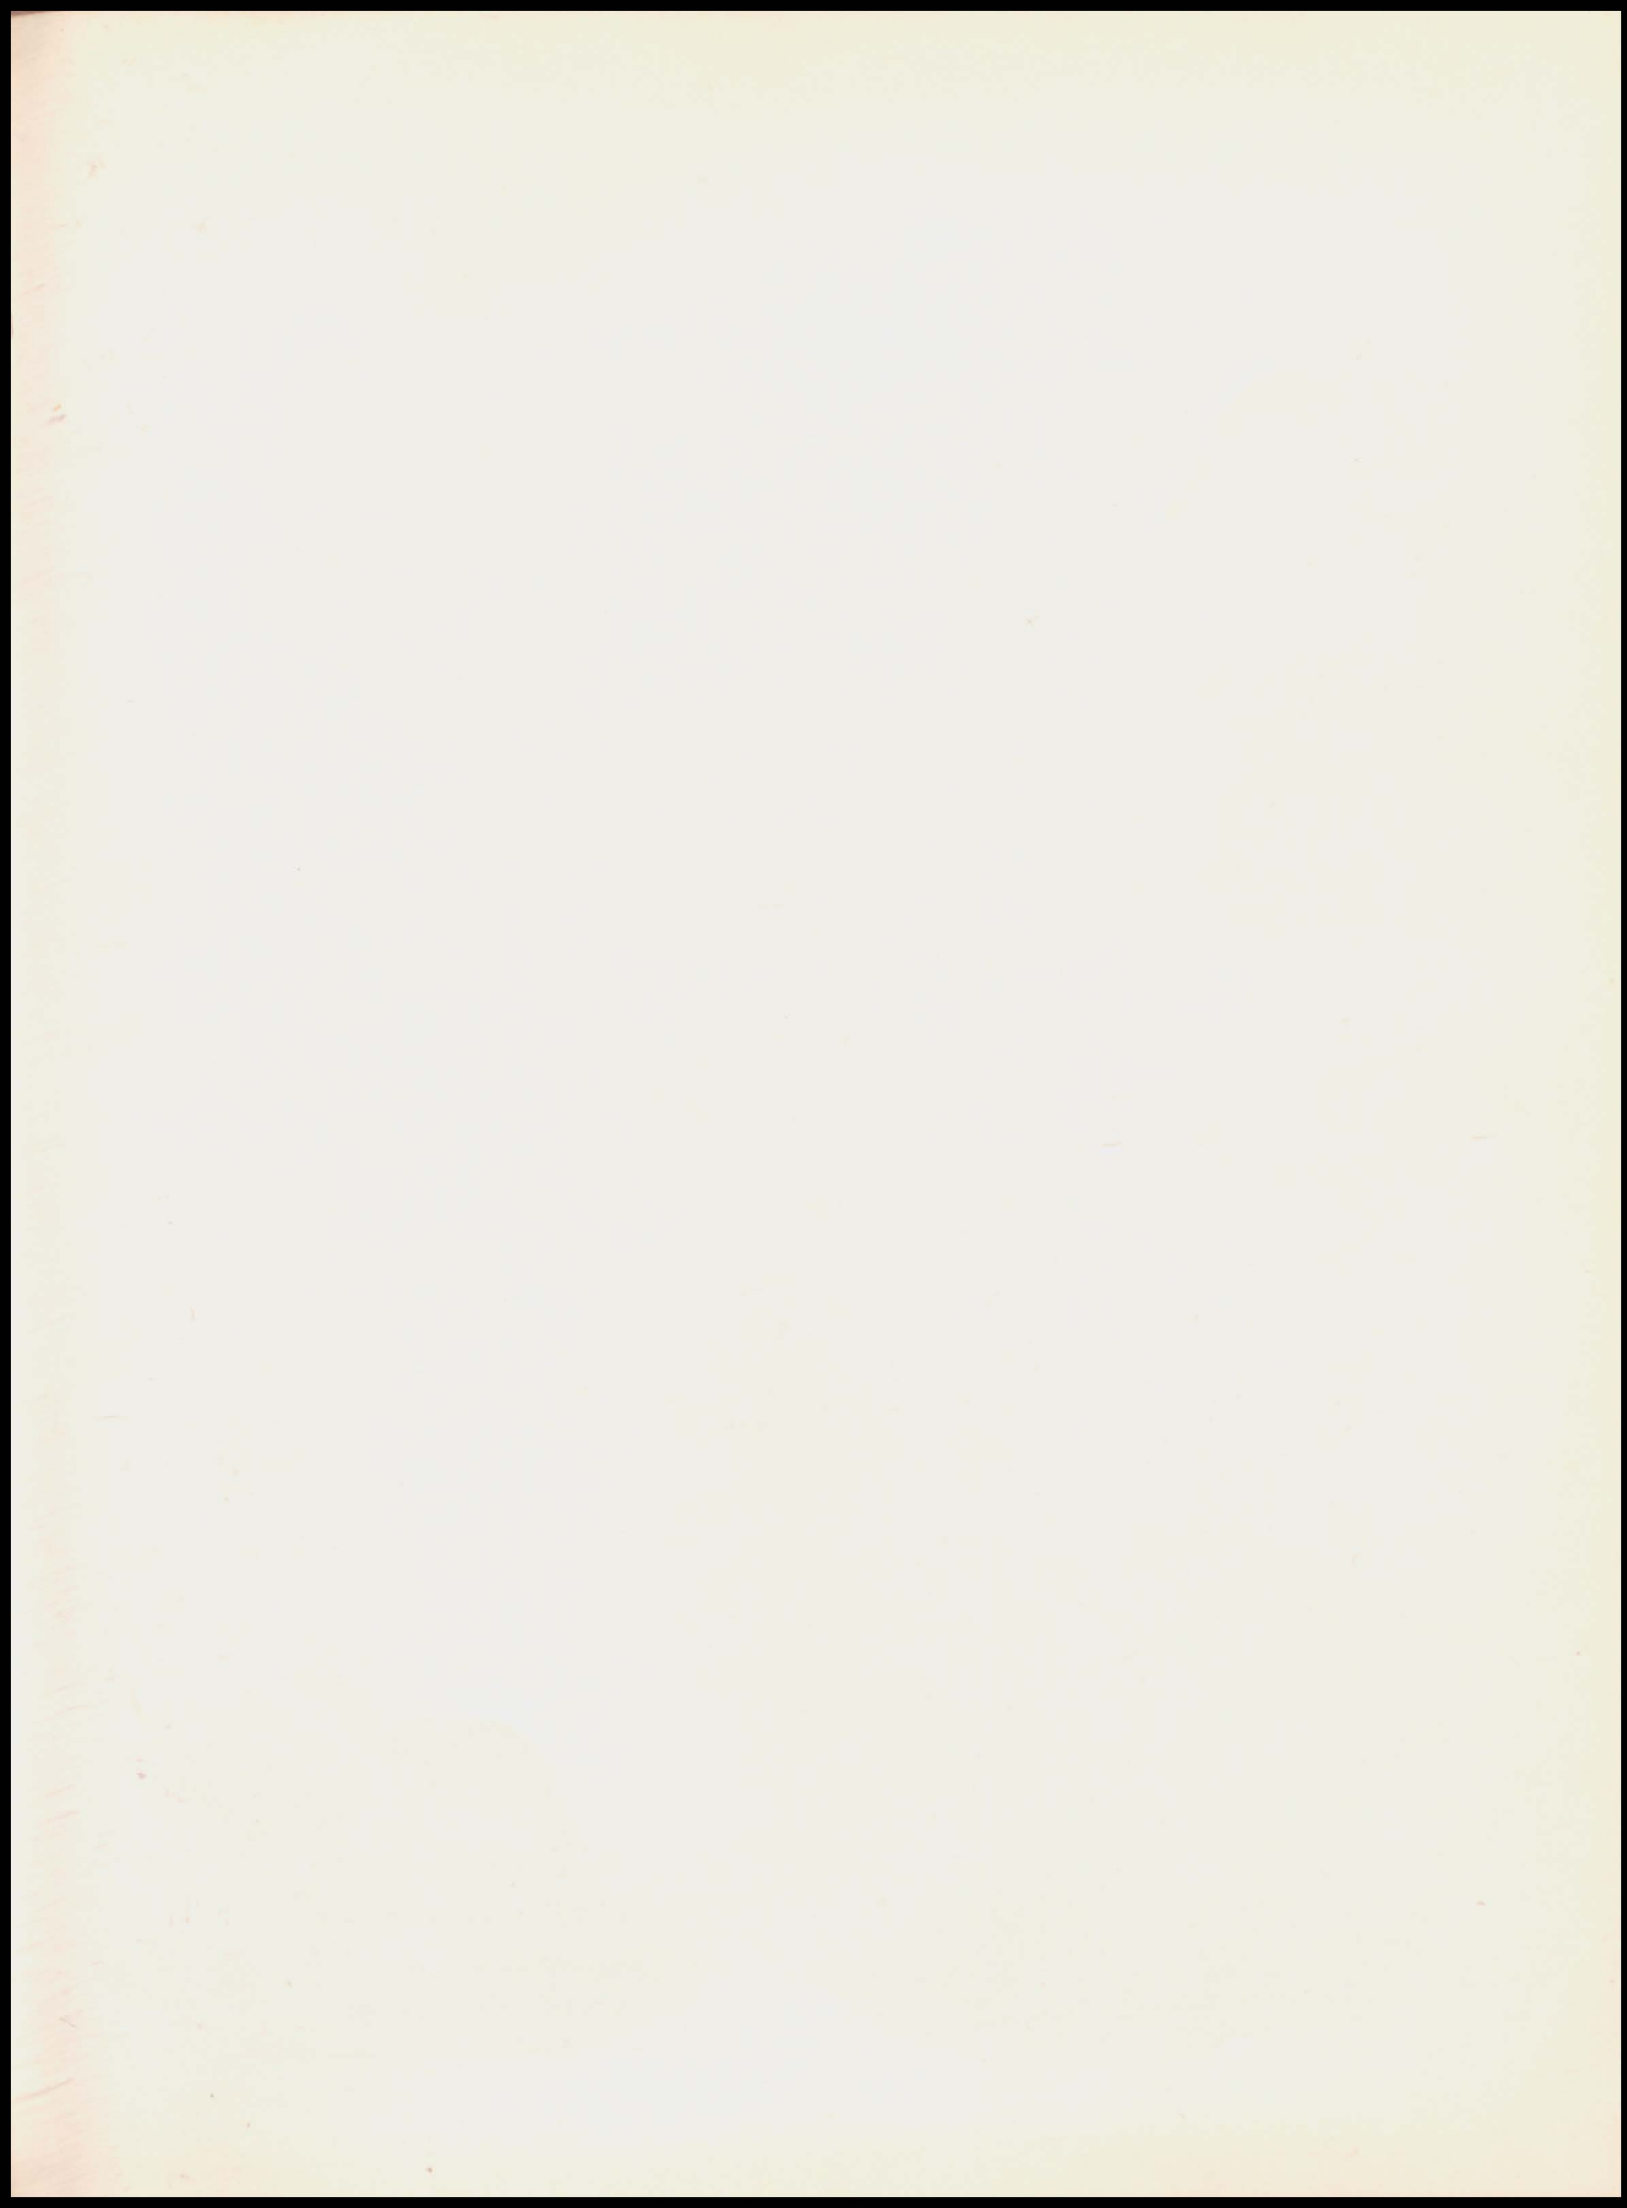

The team members who judged our queen were Jim Thomann, Howard Embry and Charles Clifford. They expressed their "best wishes to Miss Bronze and the three runners-up (Miss Gold, Miss Copper, and Miss Silver) as they are fine looking girls." They sent the queen an autographed picture of the "Sunburst" (like the one shown on page 97); and the copies we show for our annual (pages 97, 98, 99) were sent to the staff so that we could use any or all three in this copy of the annual. They thought the pictures and history would be of interest to Corning High Students.

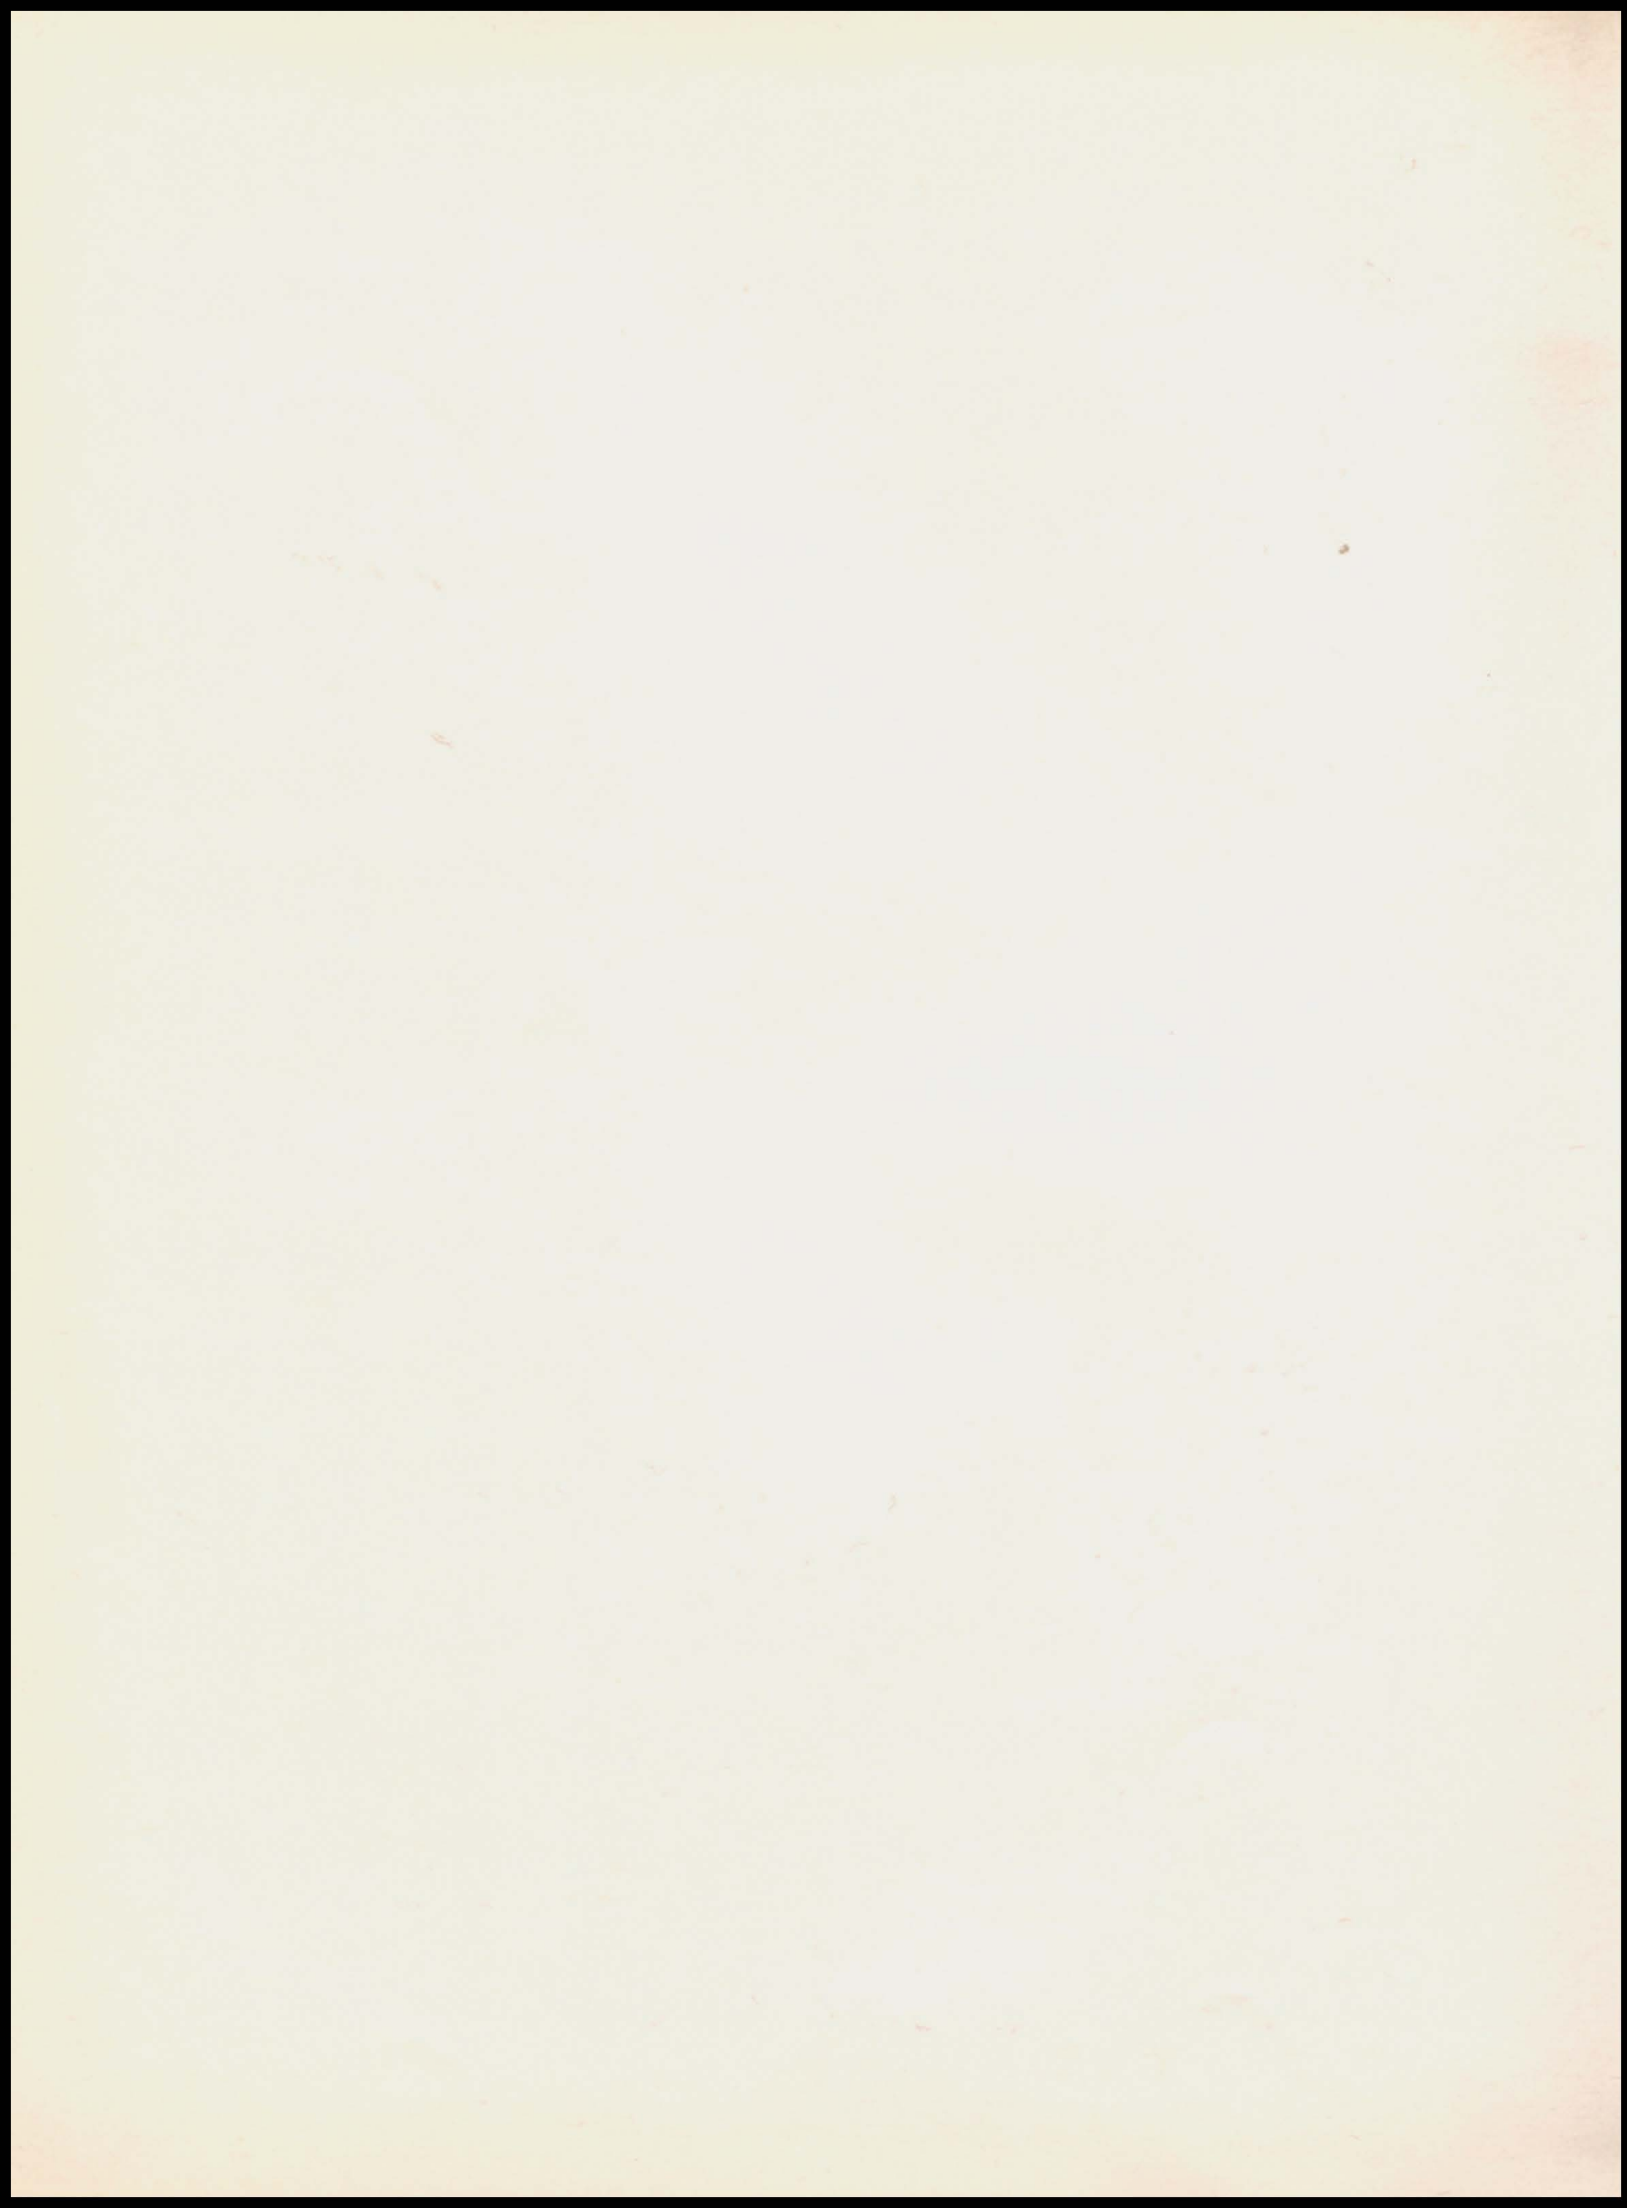

"The pleasure was ours for being chosen to pick your school Annual Queen. Thank you." -- The "Chuting Stars"
