When we began planning the final Mirror, we searched for the one theme that was truly us—the one that captured the nostalgic feeling we had as the last graduating class of Corning High School, the one that commemorated everything our school had accomplished during these past nine months—but we couldn't find a perfect fit.

So we made up a theme of our own, a yearbook that was all about who we were.

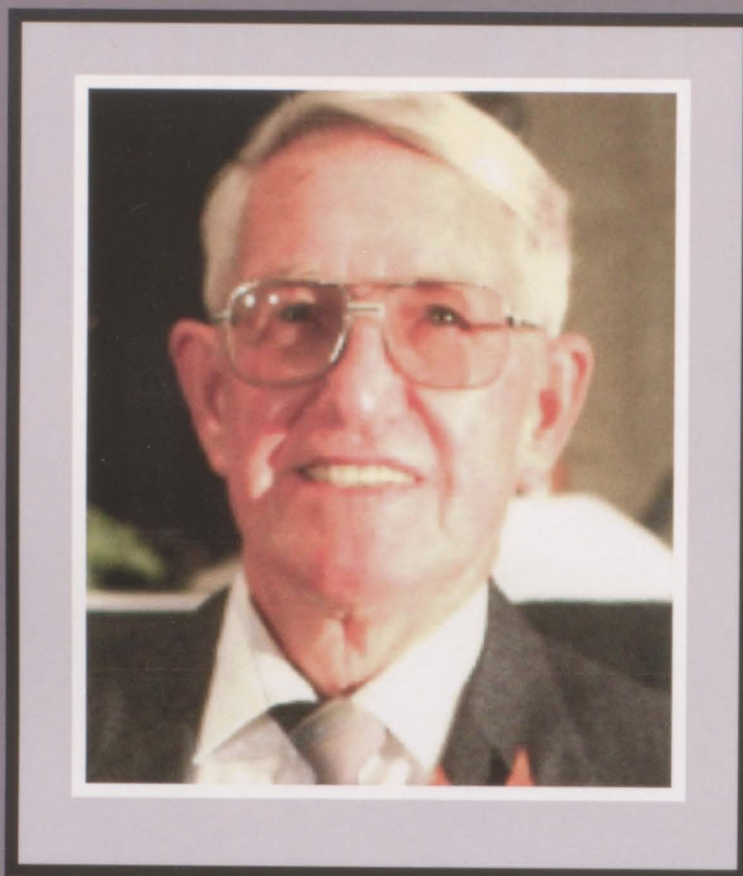

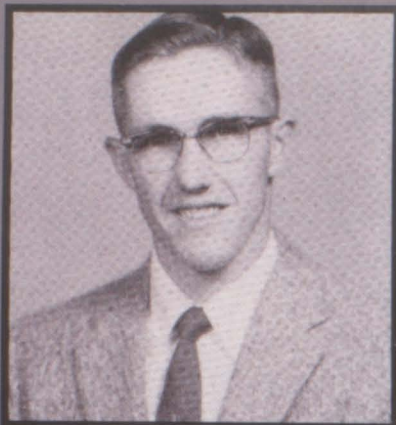

From our original cover to the descriptions on our divider pages to this very last student page, the 2013 yearbook celebrates everything we are, and it celebrates the fact that we—Corning High School, the Corning Red Raiders—were here and will continue to be here in spirit as we move forward.
